The publication agreement applies to the following work / series - hereinafter referred to as "work":

Title of work

I permanently grant the KIT Library a non-exclusive right of use for making my work available via the central repository KITopen of KIT (if necessary with specially agreed access rights).

The work is my intellectual property and does not infringe any third party claims. Possible co-authors agree with these regulations. A file upload on behalf of a third party is made with the necessary power of attorney. Associated metadata of a formal and content-enhancing nature may be generated and distributed under CC0.

The KIT Library may make conversions to other formats (e.g. for long-term archiving, for presentation options) and reserves the right to reject individual contributions (e.g. in case of a disproportionately high post-processing effort).

The KIT Library may transfer the rights granted to the German National Library (Deutsche Nationalbibliothek) or other libraries and repositories with special collection policies and, in the interest of KIT also to subject portals and social media platforms in compliance with the agreed access rights.

My work may be published in KITopen as follows:

- ☐ on the internet ☐ with the following Creative Commons license* (e.g. CC BY).....
☐ in the KIT campus network

*Tip: For the distribution of the work on the internet a Creative Commons license is advantageous. It is binding for use in social media (CC BY).

- ☐ with a limited publication period from.....until
